This Week's Focus

Phonics- This week students reviewed plural and singular possessives and r controlled words.

Reading- Students were introduced to a few of the jobs that they would be in charge of during our reading groups. We went over the connector, question asker, word wizard, and artful artist job positions. Ask your child what connections they made while reading Alexander and the Terrible, Horrible, No Good, Very Bad Day.

Writing- We continued in our informational writing unit this week by reviewing subtopics. Students used their notes to draft a graphic organizer that will help them to plan the rough draft of their report. Ask your child how many subtopics they are planning to incorporate in their report.

Spelling- Unit 20 focuses on r-controlled vowels. The challenge list and regular list have been used again for this unit. Ask your child why we nickname this spelling pattern 'bossy r.'

Math- Students started work in Chapter 8 by taking our chapter pretest. To assist us in multiplying by 6s and 7s we reviewed the commutative property of multiplication and decomposed larger multiplication facts into smaller known facts.

Religion- This week that class focused on the third commandment, honoring your father and mother. We discussed that one way we can do this is by being obedient to them. We read the bible story of Isaac and Abraham to highlight Isaac's obedience to his father. We learned that this foreshadowed Jesus's obedience to his father when Jesus died on the cross.

Science- The class started our next unit of study which will focus on weather. We talked about why weather broadcasters have such an important job and some of the tools that are used to predict the weather.
